We were privileged to have Todd Braschler conduct a ministry workshop and give a concert at our church recently. The response to both was very positive. Our church had seen little increase in attendance and membership in the last few years and we had been working to find a solution to our situation. Todd definitely gave us a vision for the future.

The workshop on Saturday helped us see that the reward for ministry is people and that we should not use people to build ministry but build people with ministry. We also learned the importance of placing people in ministries based on their passions and gifts and not just to fill slots with whoever feels that they need to do something based out of a feeling of guilt. Todd is definitely a gifted teacher! Many people commented that he kept their attention the entire time and have been asking about inviting him back for more training.

As well as being a gifted teacher, Todd is a very gifted singer. The Sunday morning concert was excellent and you could sense the anointing of the Holy Spirit on the worship service. All of those on the worship team, including me, were impressed with his knowledge of musical styles and enjoyed spending time with him learning how to make the music come alive as it should.

I would highly recommend Todd to you and your congregation. God has given him a message that everyone should hear.
